

- We added one more day (4+1) to the usual duration of the event, which is justified in our eyes by the exceptional programme of visits, discoveries and meetings both in Nice and its hinterland, as described in our invitation to ICCY ;
- This intention of ours had been announced when we were asked to arrange a 9th Winter Meeting in the Mediterranean, and the last ICCY Council meeting in Rostock took note of it;
- There is a price increase as compared to the past 'editions', as we applied a rule of three to take account of the longer duration (4+1), and thus an additional cost, i.e. we divided by 3 and multiplied by 4 ;
- We then 'rounded up' the result (especially for the cost of a person coming alone) In order not to end up - taking account of the quality and quantity of the services provided- in a situation like in Palermo where our budget could not be balanced (the costs for 'single' hotel nights had been greatly underestimated).
